Lewis and Clark Discovery Initiative; Scholarship Funding

In 2007, state legislation was enacted relative to the then Governor's Lewis and Clark Discovery Initiative (the "Initiative") providing for the Authority to fund designated capital projects at Missouri's public higher education institutions (the "Projects"). Pursuant to the legislation, the Authority was to distribute $350 million for the Projects into a fund in the State treasury known as the "Lewis and Clark Discovery Fund" (the "Fund"). The payments were scheduled to begin with $230 million in Fall of 2007 and $5 million quarterly thereafter. The Authority distributed $245 million into the Fund by early 2008 but further distributions were then delayed due to Authority determinations made pursuant to the terms of the legislation. The determinations were based on dramatic changes in the federal student loan program and the credit market crisis and related great recession. Shortly thereafter, in early 2009, the new Governor suspended the Projects and the Initiative became dormant. Accordingly, with no Projects to fund and changes in the student loan program continuing, no further contributions to the Fund have been made by the Authority pursuant to the terms of the legislation. Related to the foregoing, successive Governors have made scholarship funding requests of the Authority which are more consistent with its historical mission. In response to those Governors' requests, since 2010, the Authority has provided nearly $100 million in funding for college scholarships in the State of Missouri. The Authority has also established another vehicle for providing significant scholarship and grant funding to students at Missouri colleges and universities through its nonprofit Missouri Scholarship and Loan Foundation established in 2010.

⁽¹⁾ The Higher Education Act provides that for certain FFELP Loans first disbursed prior to April 1, 2006 lenders are entitled to retain student loan interest income in excess of the special allowance support level for such loans, in instances when the loan rate exceeds the Special Allowance Payments. However, lenders are not allowed to retain such excess interest income on other loans, including FFELP Loans disbursed on or after April 1, 2006, and are required to rebate any such “excess interest” to the Secretary on a quarterly basis. For FFELP Loans disbursed on or after April 1, 2006 and before July 1, 2010, if the stated interest rate is higher than the rate applicable to such FFELP Loan including Special Allowance Payments (“SAP”), the holder of the FFELP Loan must credit the difference to the Department of Education. FFELP Loans disbursed on or after October 1, 2007 have a higher SAP margin for eligible not-for-profit lenders such as the Corporation than for-profit lenders, but have a 40 bps to 70 bps lower SAP margin for such eligible not-for-profit lenders than loans originated on or after January 1, 2000 and before October 1, 2007.

⁽¹⁾ The Higher Education Act provides that for certain FFELP Loans first disbursed prior to April 1, 2006 lenders are entitled to retain student loan interest income in excess of the special allowance support level for such loans, in instances when the loan rate exceeds the Special Allowance Payments. However, lenders are not allowed to retain such excess interest income on other loans, including FFELP Loans disbursed on or after April 1, 2006, and are required to rebate any such “excess interest” to the Secretary on a quarterly basis. For FFELP Loans disbursed on or after April 1, 2006 and before July 1, 2010, if the stated interest rate is higher than the rate applicable to such FFELP Loan including Special Allowance Payments (“SAP”), the holder of the FFELP Loan must credit the difference to the Department of Education. FFELP Loans disbursed on or after October 1, 2007 have a higher SAP margin for eligible not-for-profit lenders such as the Corporation than for-profit lenders, but have a 40 bps to 70 bps lower SAP margin for such eligible not-for-profit lenders than loans originated on or after January 1, 2000 and before October 1, 2007.
